

'The beginning of Revelation': MAGA TV host claims Trump part of End Times prophecy

By David Edwards

February 17, 2025 2:14PM ET

the End Times predicted in the Bible's Book of Revelation.

During RSN's Presidents' Day broadcast, co-host Mathew Alvarez mused about how Trump had said that Jesus Christ was the only person more famous than him.

"We always are saying how great President Trump is, and he is, but he is standing with the Constitution, with truth, with common sense, with God, who are higher than President Trump, let's be honest," Alvarez opined. "The truth, God is higher than him. President Trump said it himself."

"He looked up, and he goes, it's not even close," he continued. "He said, Jesus Christ. So, I mean, those are the facts. And you're not gonna hear that on mainstream media."

McNeily used the opportunity to compare Trump to other biblical figures.

"Right, you know, it's someone that, I saw the comparison to Cyrus as well in the Bible, how the Persian king who helped Israel, you could even compare David," he said. "I personally believe people who were chosen in the time to lead their people, President Trump is oddly similar in with the prophecies of coming in to have really a strong personality, but also to mandate peace, to mandate prosperity, to lead their people out of bondage."

"It's eerily reminiscent of what has been prophesied in biblical times and even leading up now into what may be the beginning of Revelation," he added. "But if you look at salvation history, President Trump oddly aligning with a person who might be part of the greater plan."

ALSO READ: 'Gotta be kidding': Jim Jordan scrambles as he's confronted over Musk 'double standard'

Alvarez noted that his network followed the biblical predictions "live and in real-time."

"It's quite a time to be alive, as you guys know, it's quite the time in our country."

Revelation 19:11–21 predicts the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. Christians believe that the End Times will begin with the "rapture" of believers to heaven.

Watch the video below from RSN.

